

What is Castoria.

CASTORIA is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. For more than thirty years it has been in constant use for the relief of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic, all Teething Troubles and Diarrhoea. It regulates the Stomach and Bowels, assimilates the Food, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher, and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

Letters from Prominent Physicians addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Dr. Albert W. Kohl, of Buffalo, N. Y., says: "I have used Castoria in my practice for the past 25 years. I regard it as an excellent medicine for children."

Dr. Gustave A. Elsengraeber, of St. Paul, Minn., says: "I have used your Castoria repeatedly in my practice with good results, and can recommend it as an excellent, mild and harmless remedy for children."

Dr. E. J. Dennis, of St. Louis, Mo., says: "I have used and prescribed your Castoria in my sanitarium and outside practice for a number of years and find it to be an excellent remedy for children."

Dr. S. A. Buchanan, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "I have used your Castoria in the case of my own baby and find it pleasant to take, and have obtained excellent results from its use."

Dr. J. E. Simpson, of Chicago, Ill., says: "I have used your Castoria in cases of colic in children and have found it the best medicine of its kind on the market."

Dr. R. E. Eskildson, of Omaha, Neb., says: "I find your Castoria to be a standard family remedy. It is the best thing for infants and children I have ever known and I recommend it."

Dr. L. R. Robinson, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Your Castoria certainly has merit. Is not its age, its continued use by mothers through all these years, and the many attempts to imitate it, sufficient recommendation? What can a physician add? Leave it to the mothers."

Dr. Edwin F. Pardee, of New York City, says: "For several years I have recommended your Castoria and shall always continue to do so, as it has invariably produced beneficial results."

Dr. N. B. Sizer, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I object to what are called patent medicines, where maker alone knows what ingredients are put in them, but I know the formula of your Castoria and advise its use."

Killing Animals by Electricity.
Inquiry is made in regard to the experiments made at the abattoir here in electrocution of animals for slaughter for food. Dr. S. Leduc, who made the experiments, furnishes the following statement:
"I have killed by means of electricity a great number of animals—oxen, bulls, cows and horses, also hogs, calves, sheep and dogs. The current was of 110 volts and the intensity of 40 to 80 milliamperes. The current was interrupted 100 times per second, passing each time during one one-thousandth of a second. See on this subject the pamphlet Le Kom-munisme électrique, Masson, editor, 120 Boulevard St. Germain, Paris."
"I experimented solely with a view to study of the subject, and that is why I did not continue. The director of the abattoir at Regensburg (Ratisbonne) came to Nantes to study the question, which is followed up, I believe, in Germany."—Consul Louis Goldschmidt, Nantes, France, in the Consular Reports.

Only One Tree in Twenty Grows to Maturity.
In an article in the July Woman's Home Companion on "The Friendly Summer Trees," the author, Frank A. Waugh, professor of horticulture in the Agricultural college of Massachusetts, lays down the general rule that only one tree out of every twenty planted ever grows to maturity. He therefore advises those who plant trees to plant liberally. He goes on to say:
"Effort should be made also to select those which have grown on rich, well-drained soil. The theory that trees taken from the forest or from inclement conditions will be more hardy, runs quite opposite to the fact. Indeed, the best plan is everywhere to buy young trees from the nurseries. Nursery trees have clean, symmetrical tops, and are likely to have a hundred times more good rootage than trees taken from the field. Everything is in favor of the nursery-grown tree, except the price, and very often the expense of digging and bringing in a half dozen good-sized maples or pin-oaks from the woods is greater than the cost of better trees of similar size from the most expensive nursery in the country."

FOR THE CHILDREN

Mary's Party
Cousin Mary from the country Came to pass the day, And we had a little party, Boys and girls, to play.
Out of doors we went a-running To the great high hill, And with make believe tin buckets We played Jack and Jill.
Jack was played by brother Harry; I was little Jill. All the others ran behind us Up and down the hill.
And I played at really falling. Jack went heels o'er head! Then we all just screamed with laughter.
Cousin Mary said:
"Oh, what fun at my town party! Playing Jack and Jill! And I said to Cousin Mary, 'Let's play this game twice.'"
So we ran and laughed and tumbled Playing Jack and Jill Till we called us in to supper, And we ate our fill.

The Neighbor For Me.
In the game "The neighbor for me" the players are seated in a circle. One player has no chair and stands in the center.
The child left standing asks any one of the players, "How do you like your neighbor?"
The other answers, "I like Ethel," naming some one who sits at his right hand, "but Robert," naming some one who sits on the opposite side of the circle, "is the neighbor for me."
No one can move until the word "me" is spoken. Then Robert runs and takes Ethel's place, and Ethel and the player in the center run to see which can get Robert's vacant chair. The player who is asked the question keeps his seat. The player who does not get Robert's chair stands in the center of the circle and asks some one else, "How do you like your neighbor?"
Sometimes the player may answer, "I like my neighbor, but now—I'm going to move!"
Then every one has to change his seat for one on the opposite side of the circle. In the scramble some player is sure to be left without a chair—YOUTH'S COMPANION.

Nose and Goggle Party.
To people who like fun and a flavor of the grotesque a nose and goggle party will be great sport.
Each guest must come wearing goggles and a false nose. The nose may be bought or can be made by clever fingers of cardboard covered with camo. As the guests arrive each is given a card, perforated, with ribbon run through, to be worn around the neck, so that everybody can see it.
The cards must have on one side a number by which each guest is known, on the other side a list of figures—1, 2, 3, etc. (as many figures as there are guests), leaving space opposite each figure for a name. In social conversation each guest tries to find out with whom he or she is talking. With intimate friends the voice will betray this unless it is disguised. As you make your guess write the name opposite the number on your card corresponding to the number of the person with whom you are talking. The noses and goggles must not be removed until a stated time, when the result of the guessing may be read out in turn.

Quakers' Houses.
The players sit in a close circle and begin a conversation as follows, one answering the first question and then passing on the question to the next child, and so on.
With the first question and answer one hand is wagged and kept wagging till the second question comes around, then two hands are wagged; then one foot, then two, then the head, until finally the whole body is wagging, and the players are helpless with laughter.
Question—Neighbor, neighbor, how art thee?
Answer—Verily, I am well, I thank thee.
Question—How is the neighbor next to thee?
Answer—I don't know, so I'll go and see.
Question—Friend, in thy house shall I welcome be?
Answer—Thou art welcome, truly, my friend, to me.
And the game continues until the inventiveness of the players is exhausted.

Conundrums.
What is the difference between form and ceremony? You sit upon one and stand on the other.
What is the most awkward time for a train to start? Twelve-fifty, as it's ten to one if you catch it.
Why is a camel a very pugnacious animal? Because he always has his back up.
Why can the world be compared to music? Because it is so full of sharps and flats.
When was paper money first mentioned in the Bible? When the dove brought the green back to Noah.
Which is the easier profession, a doctor's or a clergyman's? A clergyman's. He preaches; the doctor practices.

THE LIE THAT WAS TOLD

About the Steerage Passengers of the Titanic.

In an editorial in the July American Magazine on the Titanic disaster, F. P. Dunne says in part:
"Of all the criminal things published after the sinking of the Titanic, by far the worst was the story of riot of the steerage passengers. We can't get this abomination out of our mind. As the truth has come out, we can see these poor things huddled together hoping against possibility that they may be saved; then we can see them trooping up in silent procession of the great ship—young Irish boys and girls whispering their 'pater-an-aves' as they walk, women hooded by their shawls like the mother of the Savior—some carrying children in their arms, others helping along the old and infirm; meek Russian peasants bent with toil; poor, tired and hopeless creatures all. They find their way to the upper decks not without a certain feeling of apology for venturing on this hitherto prohibited territory, but there is no need of this now. And no need is there for the brave officers to despatch them with bullets. 'No bullet wounds were found on the bodies,' reports the captain of the cable ship. The officers are either in the small boats paddling to safety or they are with the others patiently awaiting the inevitable.
"And these poor people are the very same who in the papers and the gossip of the New York clubs were reported to be raging, bloodthirsty madmen! What writer who penned such a monstrous falsehood must not hang his head in shame forever. How incredible the coarse surmise that a man will not meet death with dignity because his hands are stained with work? Is there in the minds of many of us the disastrous belief that different standards of personal honor in the supreme tests of life exist with the rich and with the poor?"

DARROW LIKELY TO HANDLE OWN CASE

Trial Will Be Resumed To-day and the Defense May Open To-morrow.

Los Angeles, July 8.—Clarence S. Darrow, on trial for jury bribing, will take charge of his own case if Earl Rogers, chief counsel, has not recovered from his illness when the trial is resumed to-day.

The defense expects to begin the presentation of its case to-morrow morning.

HOPES DARROW WILL CONFESS.

Detective Burns Says Revelation Would Startle the Whole Country.

Chicago, July 8.—Revelations so sensational that the country would be shocked as it was in the McNamara case, were predicted Saturday by W. J. Burns, head of the Burns National Detective agency, in case Clarence S. Darrow, the Chicago attorney on trial at Los Angeles on a charge of jury bribing, should decide to make a complete confession of all he knows, sparing no one. Mr. Burns arrived in Chicago Saturday from California, fresh from the trial.

"I don't think that it would be necessary to send anyone to prison in case the full facts could be made known through a confession," he said. "Then the public would know just what men were connected with this outrage, how they went about their work and what they did. I think that it would do more good in cleaning the ranks of labor of the crooks than the mere sending of Darrow to prison. The people would be startled if they knew the names of every one connected with the dastardly plot."
"Do you expect the jury to convict Darrow?"
"I don't see how there can be anything but a conviction," replied Mr. Burns. "The case of the state is perfect, and it will be impossible for the defense to explain away the evidence."

The Helpful Mother.

"The late Margaret E. Sangster, poet and novelist," said a South Orange woman, "believed that the American mother didn't do enough, in a social way, for her daughters. She used to contrast the European mother, always straining every nerve to marry her girls off well, with the American, who frequently never lifts a finger toward getting good introductions for her own."
"I once heard Mrs. Sangster illustrate the European mother's helpful cleverness with an anecdote about a French woman who was entertaining a rich young manufacturer."
"As the woman talked with her guest, her daughter began to play the piano upstairs."
"What wretched playing," said the rich manufacturer, who was rather a connoisseur. "Who is it?"
"Oh, just the cook," the mother replied quickly. "We let her practice when her work is done."
"At lunch the rich manufacturer was delighted with the bouillabaisse, a difficult dish of lobster and five kinds of fish."
"But this is exquisite!" he cried. "It takes me back to the Canebiere of Mar-seilles. Who made this superb bouillabaisse?"
"The mother answered suavely: 'Oh, dear daughter made that—didn't you, Angèle?'—Philadelphia Bulletin."

Her Specialty.
Mrs. Sutton advertised for a woman to do general housework, and in answer, a colored girl called, announcing that she had come for the position.
"Are you a good cook?" asked Mrs. Sutton.
"No, indeed, I don't cook," was the reply.
"Are you a good laundress?"
"I wouldn't do washin' and ironin'; it's too hard on the hands."
"Can you sweep?" asked Mrs. Sutton.
"No," was the positive answer. "I'm not strong enough."
"Well," said the lady of the house, quite exasperated, "may I ask what you can do?"
"I dusts," came the placid reply.—Everybody's Magazine.
